IR Compilation of Information on Soviet Research Institutes.

1. The Guided Missiles Branch has been informed of the intelligence information recently derived from limited product analysis of Soviet research institutes by OCR analysts. We understand that OCR is considering detailed commodity analysis of selected research institutes. We believe that a systematic analysis of these institutes may make a distinct contribution to guided missiles intelligence.

2. There probably are several chemical, aircraft, electronic and weapons institutes directly engaged in missile systems development and prototype production. The Guided Missiles Branch can supply the Industrial Register indicators and informal support in aspects of these fields which may be associated with missile system activity.
